

State of Vermont
Executive Department
A Proclamation

WHEREAS, National Pretrial, Probation, and Parole Supervision week has been celebrated on the third week of July since 1999 to celebrate over 100,000 community corrections professionals around the country who work hard to keep our communities safe; and

WHEREAS, community corrections professionals are responsible for supervising adults and juveniles in the community; and

WHEREAS, community corrections professionals work in partnership with community agencies and groups across the state to provide support to those who need it most; and

WHEREAS, community corrections professionals promote prevention, intervention and advocacy, playing an important role in strengthening communities across the nation; and

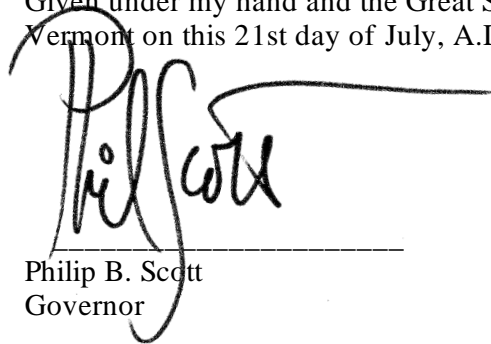

WHEREAS, community corrections professionals provide services, support, and protection for victims, ensuring their needs are addressed; and

WHEREAS, all Vermonters are encouraged to honor the community corrections professionals for their service in improving outcomes for the individual and public safety of our communities.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Philip B. Scott, Governor, hereby proclaim the week of July 21 – 27, 2024, as

PRETRIAL, PROBATION AND PAROLE SUPERVISION WEEK in Vermont.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Vermont on this 21st day of July, A.D. 2024.

Philip B. Scott
